The M.A. in Hispanic Studies is an interdisciplinary program that offers three different concentration areas of study:

1) Hispanic Linguistics
2) Hispanic Literature
3) Hispanic Cultural Studies

Each concentration area is offered with both the thesis and the non-thesis options. They are structured to help guide the student in selecting courses and designing a research agenda.

The program is supported by a faculty unit that is strong in interdisciplinary approaches to the study of language, literature, and culture. Affiliated faculty members from other departments complement the program with expertise in anthropology, linguistics, geography, history, and other disciplines.

Graduate Assistantships are offered to qualified full-time graduate students for a maximum of two years and include a tuition waiver and stipend.
Program Faculty

Spanish Faculty
Elena Castro
Alejandro Cortazar
Dorian Dorado
Christian Fernández
Dorota Heneghan
Jeremy King
Laura Martins
Carmela Mattza
Andrea Morris
Rafael Orozco

Affiliated Faculty

Geography and Anthropology:
Mary Jill Brody
David Chicoine
Kent Mathewson
Heather McKillop

History:
Stephen Andes
Paul Hoffman

English:
Irina Shport
Solimar Otero

Art History:
Elena FitzPatrick Sifford

For additional assistance please contact Dr. Rafael Orozco, Graduate Advisor (rorozcl@lsu.edu; 225-578-5179). Applications for admission can be considered at any time.

Information is also available through the Dept. of Foreign Languages and Literatures website under Spanish www.lsu.edu/hss/fll