The defects and weaknesses of a democratic government may readily be discovered; they can be proved by obvious facts, whereas their healthy influence becomes evident in ways which are not obvious and are, so to speak, hidden. A glance suffices to detect its faults, but its good qualities can be discerned only by long observation. The laws of the American democracy are frequently defective or incomplete; they sometimes attack vested rights, or sanction others which are dangerous to the community; and even if they were good, their frequency would still be a great evil. How comes it, then, that the American republics prosper and continue?

Alexis de Tocqueville, Democracy in America, Book 1, Chapter 14

I. Course Description and Objective:

This course is designed to give students an introduction to the fundamentals of American politics. The course will focus on the history, theoretical and philosophical ideas, institutions, the cultural traditions, and the societal conditions that function within the American political system. We will focus on the theme of democracy and critically examine the democratic nature of American politics.

II. Required Texts:

These text books are available at all of the university book stores. If you buy a used copy, please make certain that it is the most recent edition since the readings are different in older editions.

III. Course Guidelines and Expectations:

Assignments

Written Homework: Each student will be required to write 2 critical analysis papers of 1 to 2 pages each. These reaction papers will be based upon readings from our Lasser text that we cover in class.* Students must follow the guidelines that will be handed out in class for their papers, and they must sign up on the schedule for two topics. During the week we are discussing the issue, each student will briefly present his or her topic to the class. Once the schedule is completed, it will be posted on Moodle. These assignments will make up 25% of your grade.

In Class Assignments: Class attendance and participation is mandatory for each class. We will do in-class work, quizzes, and exercises that will make up about 15% of your grade, so it is highly recommended that you to attend each class.

Exams

We will have one midterm (25% of your grade) and one final exam (35% of your grade). The format of these exams will include objective questions and essays.

Grades

Grades will be distributed based on reaction papers, in-class assignments, midterm, and final exam. Grade Scale as follows:

A 100%-90%
B 89%-80%
C 79%-70%
D 69%-60%
F 59% and below

Make-Ups/Absences

Make-up exams are given only to students who can produce a valid and documented excuse explaining why they had to miss an exam. You must tell me in advance if you will miss an exam. For problems that arise unexpectedly, get in contact with me as soon as possible. Do not wait to get in touch with me. Students who do not meet these requirements will receive a 0 on the exam.

IV. University Regulations and General Education Requirement

University Regulations on Plagiarism and Academic Misconduct apply to this course. You can view these regulations here:

If a student is found guilty of such misconduct, an F may be given for the assignment or for the course, and expulsion from the course could result.

POLI 2051 fulfills the University required General Education Requirement for the Social Sciences. See additional handout for more information.
