COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course is primarily designed to grant students a broad-based exposure, across a variety of conceptual and empirical issues, to the current international system. These issues will be contextualized within both normative and empirical frameworks to equip students with a sophisticated and multi-dimensional analytical toolbox. Such an intimate engagement should prepare students to tease out fundamental debates within the IR discipline on crucial international problems and different analytical paradigms to deal with them.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Students will be able to:

- Identify: Theories of world politics
- Recognize: Structures and processes
- Describe: Globalization and its future
- Classify: International issues
- Evaluate: Various issue areas associated with globalization
- Explain: Different Process at work in the process of globalization
- Define: Key theoretical themes and events associated with globalization

MAJOR & CURRICULUM OBJECTIVES TARGETED
The course is targeted to afford students a wide-ranging menu of issue-areas within a historical context that have risen onto the agenda of international politics in the post-Cold War era. The course will be taught at a generic level assuming no prior knowledge of or expertise in International Relations.

ASSURANCE OF LEARNING

We will combine weekly chapter write-ups with two multiple-choice exams to ensure maximum exposure to the material covered.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

COURSE PREREQUISITES

There are no prerequisites for this course.

TEXTBOOK:

The Globalization of World Politics: An Introduction to International Relations; (John Baylis, Steve Smith, Patricia Owens) (Oxford University Press, USA; 6 edition; 2014)

- ISBN-10: 0199656177
- ISBN-13: 978-0199656172
Weekly Write-ups

The course consists of 10 sections. For each of the 10 sections, students are required to write a roughly 500-word write-up encapsulating the main concepts, associated events, and prominent figures covered in the readings assigned for that section. Each write-up will constitute 5 percent of your final grade for a total of 50%. You are required to submit these write-ups via turnitin on Moodle. There are no write-up assignments until the end of the second week of classes; this should give you ample time to obtain the textbook. So, no excuse for not having received the book to submit the weekly write-ups will be accepted. The deadlines for these write-ups are set at 11:55 P.M of the last date allocated for that section. These deadlines are as follows and will NOT be extended under any circumstances. The segments you will need to submit assignments for are indicated in Course Calendar.

Exams

Two 50-question multiple-choice exams (each question is worth 0.50 percent of the final grade) will together constitute the remaining 50% of the final grade. These exams are non-cumulative and will test your general understanding and appreciation of the main themes tackled over the course of the class. An intimate engagement with the assigned readings should do the trick for these tests. Each exam will be allotted 60 minutes.

Exam Deadlines:

The First exam will be on Friday, October 17th.
The Second test will be on Friday, December 5th

GRADING

Final grades will be computed based upon performance on the following items:
Write-ups: 50%
Exam 1: 25%
Exam 2: 25%

Total: 100%

Grading Scales:

A= 90-100%
B= 80-89 %
C= 70-79%
D= 60-69%
