STUDENT UNION ART GALLERY

The History of Places Art Exhibit

September 27, 2018 - October 18, 2018

Place can be defined with a rigid definition of a particular position or point in space. However, it can often be much more than that. It can be a feeling, emotion or even a period of time. Understanding place helps to foster connections within the individuals and the community at large.

The History of Places Art Exhibit features Chris Burns, Emery Kate Tillman, Clare Samani, and Luke Atkinson, all LSU School of Art graduate students. Each artist has their own definition of place which they highlight in their work through a love story, a football field, or articles of clothing.

The artists know the importance of a place. The exhibit is free and open to everyone!
