Call for Nominations – LSU's Student Employee of the Year

Nominations are now being accepted for LSU's Student Employee of the Year. Each unit should choose one exceptional student to nominate based on the eligibility criteria and nomination form found on the Student Employee of the Year webpage.

Nomination Deadline: Friday, March 12.

Tip of the Month:

Although the semester has just started, it's time for students to begin thinking about their summer plans, even if they don't yet realize it! Supporting students in their career development is a benefit of on-campus employment and an active way we can all foster student success.

Here are some helpful questions you can ask your student employees to get them thinking about being intentional over the summer:

- What are your plans for the summer?
- Have you given any thought to what you might do over the summer to help you achieve your post-graduation goals?
- Are you looking for an internship?
- Have you had someone look over your resume?

Encourage your student employees to attend virtual recruiting events this semester, explore the job postings in Handshake or seek volunteer opportunities that build transferrable skills.
