

The LSU Writing Project

in collaboration with

Human Sciences & Education & Distance Learning Librarian, Middleton Library

Fall 2018 Writing Support Demonstrations geared toward

PhD Students – Early Scholars – Novice Researchers

DEMONSTRATION #1

Searching Databases for Literature Reviews

Saturday, September 15, 2018 1:00PM – 2:00PM 225 Peabody Hall

- awareness of database searching skills
- using citation index databases
- databases resources awareness
- the process

(includes time for participants to practice)

DEMONSTRATION #2

Organizing Citations & Articles utilizing Citation Management Software

Saturday, October 6, 2018 9:30AM – 10:30AM 225 Peabody Hall

- Mendeley demonstration: citation management basics and caveats

(includes time for participants to practice)

DEMONSTRATION #3

Exploring Impact Factors and Rankings For Journals-Publishing Houses-Books

Saturday, October 27, 2018 9:30AM – 10:30AM 225 Peabody Hall

- Open Access discussion/demonstration
- demonstration on how to locate rankings with Journal Citation Reports
- introduction to Scimago and Cabell's journal rankings
- identifying quality sources of articles and targeting journals
- book rankings

Demonstrations facilitated by

Andrea Hebert

Human Sciences, Education, and Distance Learning Librarian
LSU Libraries
141A Middleton Library
office 225-578-7195 ahibert@lsu.edu

Margaret-Mary Sulentic Dowell

Professor, School of Education
Director, LSU Writing Project
228 Peabody Hall
office 225-578-5998 sdowell@lsu.edu