

Students Entering on Probation

1. In accord with Graduate School policy, students entering on probation will remain on probation until the completion of nine hours of graduate-level, graded courses (“A,” “B,” and “C” only) with at least a 3.00 average. Part-time students entering on probation and registering for fewer than nine hours may be dropped from the Graduate School if their GPA is less than 3.00 during any semester in which they are registered.
2. Students entering on probation may not be appointed to assistantships or fellowships until they attain good academic standing. (See PS-21 for additional information.)
3. Students entering on probation are permitted to register for core courses only for the first nine hours. They may register for 6 hours of core courses and 3 hours of elective credit with the approval of their advisor if there are compelling circumstances as determined by the advisor.
