Who We Are

We are LSU faculty and staff who stand in solidarity with the A/AAPI community. We are tenured and untenured faculty, deans, department chairs and coordinators, directors of academic programs, university administrators, high computational physicists, veterinarians, English teachers, literary critics, psychologists, geologists, professionals in residence, art historians, and so much more. We speak many languages; we are members of many faith communities; we have cross-generational roots in many nations; we are composed of many ethnicities. But we are united in our belief that we are STRONGER !TOGETHER!

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS!

A Forum on the Legal Rights of the A/AAPI Community

Organized by The Asian/Asian American Pacific Islander Faculty and Staff Caucus at LSU

Learn how to legally protect yourself and those around you if you experience or witness anti-Asian incidents on campus. Join Winston G. DeCuir, Jr., Vice President of Legal Affairs and General Counsel at LSU, for a discussion on the legal rights and recourses of the A/AAPI community when racist, xenophobic, or Islamophobic harassment or attacks occur on our campus. Bring your questions, worries, and concerns.
