EDUCATION

Doctoral Candidate, Louisiana State University, Communication Sciences and Disorders

Anticipated August 2021
Advisor: Melda Kunduk, PhD

M.A., Louisiana State University, Communication Disorders 2015

Thesis: Reliability of Subjective Endoscopic Parameters in the Differentiation of Essential Voice Tremor and Adductor Spasmodic Dysphonia Using High-Speed Videoendoscopy
Committee Chair: Melda Kunduk, PhD

B.A., Northwestern University, English Literature 2010

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Predoctoral Research Assistant 2015-Present

Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA
Laryngeal Imaging Lab

- Doctoral candidate and researcher focused on clinical diagnostics and reliability with laryngeal imaging via stroboscopy, high-speed videoendoscopy, and with modified barium swallow studies.
- Published 3 journal articles

Graduate Research Assistant 2014-2015

Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA
Laryngeal Imaging Lab

- Evaluated reliability of subjective high-speed videoendoscopic imaging for voice disorders

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Primary Instructor, Communication Sciences and Disorders, LSU

COMD 4681: Clinical Preparation and Observation Laboratory Fall 2019
▪ Primary Instructor of 43 undergraduate students
▪ Course fulfilled ASHA 2020 Standards (Standard V-C), providing guided clinical observation in assessment and treatment of communication disorders.
▪ Discussed additional clinical topics including ethics, SOAP notes, and goal writing.

COMD 1751: COMD Goes to the Movies Spring 2019
▪ Primary Instructor of 14 undergraduate students.
▪ Course introduced students to various communication disorders through the lens of cinema, discussing the nature of impairments, an overview of the field, and presentation of communication disorders in the media.

COMD 2050/LING 2050: Introduction to Language Fall 2015
Spring 2016
Fall 2016
Spring 2017
Fall 2018
▪ Primary Instructor of ~50-70 undergraduate students.
▪ Course introduced basic tenets of language and linguistics including the five major domains of language, language and the brain, and sociolinguistics.

Teaching Assistant, Communication Sciences and Disorders, LSU

COMD 4153: Acoustics of Speech and Hearing Spring 2018
Spring 2020
▪ Lab instructor: led acoustic laboratory practicum and review sessions, held office hours, graded exams and assignments, and created online interactive lab quiz sections

Guest Lecturer

COMD 7382: Voice Disorders, Louisiana State University
▪ “Patient Compliance, Perceived Control, and Fostering Self-Efficacy” Fall 2019
▪ “Mind the Gap: Establishing Cause & Effect Relationships Between Voice Physiology, Voice Acoustics, and Perception” Fall 2016
▪ “Vocal Fold Physiology & Theories of Phonation” Fall 2016

SLHS 574: Speech Disorders II, University of Arizona
▪ “Patient Compliance, Perceived Control, and Fostering Self-Efficacy” Spring 2020
