SPANISH

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN LANGUAGES & LITERATURES

UNDERSTANDING THE PROGRAM

Spanish is one of the three most widely spoken languages in the world and the second most widely used language in the United States. Knowledge of the Spanish language and culture offers you a competitive edge and makes you more marketable to employers in any field. Graduates have gone onto successful careers in fields such as business, social work, communications, diplomacy and international relations, health care, law, tourism, and counseling.

ABOUT YOU

Interested in obtaining an education that will allow you to develop skills required in today's global marketplace? You will have the opportunity to interact and participate in research with a diverse faculty specializing in Hispanic linguistics, literatures, and cultures. You can also participate in study abroad programs in Spain, or one of the many Spanish-speaking countries in Latin America. Many students combine Spanish with another major, such as international studies, history, English, or psychology.

COURSE OFFERINGS

In addition to general Spanish courses, a wide range of more specific courses are offered, such as Spanish for business/Spanish for medical purposes, structure of the Spanish language, Spanish phonetics, advanced oral conversations, history and art in Spain, history and art in Latin America, women writers in Spain/Latin America, Cinema in Spanish, Transatlantic studies, and applied Spanish linguistics. We even offer a concentration in secondary education that includes specialized classes in language teaching and leads to certification.

Spanish is part of the HSS 3+3 Pre-Law Program, which allows LSU students to receive a bachelor's degree and law degree in six years rather than taking the traditional route of seven years. For more information, visit www.lsu.edu/prelaw.
